Each year group has an overview of areas that need to be covered within these topics. RE should be taught weekly for around 30 minutes. Lessons could include class discussions, sharing stories, focused reading, circle-times, role-play, hot-seating, show & tell or recorded work; however works best for your class. If work is not recorded, notes of discussions or photos of activities can be added to your class book. This will help me to assess coverage of RE taught, as well as through pupil voice and looking at planning.
